

David T. Brunson is the President of Lifeway Financial Corporation, a fee-only financial planning and investment management firm, dedicated to helping its clients realize their chosen lifeway.

David holds the Certified Financial Planner®, Certified Financial Analyst®, and Certified Divorce Financial Analyst™ designations and is a member of the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors, the Financial Planning Association, the CFA Institute®, the Institute for Certified Divorce Financial Analysts™, the Collaborative Law Institute of Texas and the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals.

David is also a member of The Collaborative Alliance, an interdisciplinary group of attorneys, financial professionals and mental health professionals, committed to helping clients through divorce using the Collaborative Law process. It is the mission of The Collaborative Alliance to provide a safe, supportive, and respectful environment where clients are empowered to productively resolve divorce issues based on their goals and interests, while minimizing damage to their children, families, and relationships.

David holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from Texas Tech University and a Master of Business Administration degree with a concentration in Finance from the University of Texas at Arlington. He also holds a Graduate Studies Certificate in Alternative Dispute Resolution from Southern Methodist University, where he currently teaches financial planning in dispute resolution settings for the graduate programs in the SMU Center for Dispute Resolution and Conflict Management.

David has over two decades of experience in financial planning, investment management, and in helping clients through the divorce process.

CFP® and Certified Financial Planner® are federally registered marks of the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. CFA®, Certified Financial Analyst®, and the CFA Institute® are Trademarks owned by the CFA Institute.